

Frames for all the family from Ridgway Optical

Ridgway Optical has released the Superflex range of ophthalmic frames. The collection comprises over 40 styles and includes models suitable for women, men and teens. Models in the range fit in with the company's ethos of offering frames which focus on wearable fronts mixed with highly detailed and interesting temples. 'With quality and style at the forefront, Superflex provides a frame selection for every member of the family,' said a company statement.

Pictured from the new collection are the women's model SF-365 (1) and men's SFK084 (2). Both sport easy to wear rectangular silhouettes, but the pink women's frame has temples with feminine lattice detailing, while the anthracite men's frame features angular cut-away shapes.